Our Optical Department still goes along in the even tenor of its way despite all opposition. Every day we fit somebody either with a pair of Eyeglasses for 25c., and once in a while we get as high as $2.00. We can't go higher because that is the best pair of crystals you can buy and why pay more? The reason is that we do not need any special two weeks' study of the question because our instrument, the EYEMETER, is so simple that its test is absolute. Doesn't matter if your eyes are myopic, astigmatic or any other ailment, that instrument gets there every time.

A NEW MINISTER.

If Commissioner Blount Returns Minister Stevens Should Be Recalled.

[Charles Nordhoff in the N. Y. Herald.]

HONOLULU, April 12, via SAN FRANCISCO, April 13, 1893.—There is a rumor brought down by steamer yesterday that Col. Blount is to be hastened in his investigations, in order to return within a month to Washington to make his formal report to President Cleveland.

If this true it is of great importance before Mr. Blount departs the President should send down there as minister some one who will thoroughly represent the views of the administration. Mr. Stevens, the present minister, has been and will continue to be, so long as he remains here, an intermeddler in local differences openly on the side of annexation. He can do no good and may help to serious harm.

His continued presence here as minister is necessarily a direct encouragement to the hopes of the planter annexationists and a blow at their opponents.

The native people and those foreigners who sympathize with them, though everything is quiet here, understand that the material exist for serious trouble. This the provisional government people feel. They were uneasy at the possible results of Col. Blount's withdrawal of troops, as unhappy as the Southern carpet baggers when Gen. Grant refused troops or when Mr. Hayes withdrew them entirely, but the queen's party are quiet.

They wait for the President's action and are content to wait, because Col. Blount has held an entirely even hand between the contending sides. If he should be summoned home before Mr. Stevens is replaced by a minister representing and in favor of Mr. Cleveland's views and wishes, that would alter the situation materially.

The Japanese have not yet taken possession of these islands. The British lion is not seen to wag his dreadful tail. Col. Blount has not forcibly restored the queen, and everything is quiet, even the discussions between those who want annexation and those who do not.

Of these discussions there are many and in one at which I assisted by request a singular and, I believe, hitherto unmentioned fact came out. Being urgently pressed for my opinion of recent events, I felt free to say that two influential and eminently respectable, though not official, members of the planter's party: "We in America have not the least objection to your revolution if you do it yourselves. What we dislike is that you got U. S. troops to help you, and made yourselves the rulers of the islands. Then you began to cry for annexation, and hastened to Washington to get us to take off your hands what was just then your stolen property."

"You were not a de facto government, for a de facto government ought to stand on its own legs, and that you didn't do. That is why your movement was regarded in the United States by most people with contempt." You may imagine my surprise when those gentlemen exclaimed: "Oh, but you don't understand what was our situation. We have to promise annexation. If we hadn't done that we couldn't have got 20 men to join in our movement. It would have been an entire failure if we hadn't held to the promise made of a prospect of annexation."

"But," I asked, "did you have any promise from the U. S. government which authorized you to hook this bait to induce people to join you in a revolutionary act, or otherwise, as you tell me, wouldn't it be no act?" They owned that they had no such promise; they hadn't even consulted the Washington government on the subject.

There are countries where a conspiracy which begins by deluding and swindling its own followers would be called a fraud. Certainly this sugar planter's revolution, in spite of the fact that many of its leaders are respectable and amiable members of society, cannot itself claim respect when, without practicing a gross deceit, "it could not have got a following of 20 men."

I have found two or three men who would not object to a free independent republic, but a republic is not in favor with the planters, who do not want to govern, but to use some outside force to keep down the natives, and the Chinese and Japs and Portuguese as well. Finally I have had the benefit of a long conversation with one of the most intelligent, and, on the whole, sanest man in this movement, though not a member of the provisional government.

"If annexation doesn't come, as I don't believe it will, what do you gentlemen really propose?" I asked.

"I don't know, because we have not got so far yet," he replied. "But I see nothing for it myself except the formation of a small and strong oligarchy. That would secure peace and order, and is what we want."

"That strikes me, on the whole, as the most sensible of all the propositions I have so far heard of." You will observe, of course, that none of these suggestions look to a free popular government. None of them are of a kind which would be a benefit or blessing to us to have as part of us.

If the 40,000 native population wouldn't make such citizens as the United States would be benefited by, if the 16,000 Chinese, the 13,000 Japs, even the 8,000 Portuguese, would not be model American citizens either, in view of what they desire, would the Americans, English and Germans represented in the planters' government be a valuable addition to us?

When President Cleveland or congress refuses annexation, in my belief the ablest men of the planters' side will set to work upon the "oligarchy" my friend spoke of, the rule of a few strict and probably not unjust men, for injustice would have evil consequences.

Such a form of government left independent and free to act by an agreement of the great powers to neutralize these islands as the Suez Canal is neutralized and as a canal across the American isthmus would be neutralized might do well. It might even be the best possible for such a mongrel population as has been gathered together by the acts of sugar planters. For the present, however, they will talk only of annexation.

Why should we of the United States burden ourselves with the possession and the government and the defense of these far-away islands? The only answer is because the stockholders on about 65 sugar plantations want a chance to make more money, being rich already, and do not want the trouble of justly ruling the people among whom they have chosen to settle themselves and to whom, while they did rule, and then added, by importation, to government expense, thousands of Chinese, Japanese and other aliens.

Of course, they are playing for what they believe to be a great game and in good years, and almost all the years were good under the treaty until the McKinley bill came to spoil all.

In good years these lucky planters made from 20 to 60 and 80 p. c. per annum clear profit in their investment. I mean that the most favorably situated made between 60 and 80 p. c., the least favorably placed and managed 20 p. c. They had under the treaty and our sugar duties an advantage of about 2 cents per pound over their competitors in every part of the world, and they have the richest sugar lands on the planet. They are not doing so well now and it is not probable they will do so well again.

An Ingenious Trick.

"Of all the humiliating positions that I was ever in," said a well-known New England clergyman to a Journal man, "by far the worst happened when I was a young man and an usher in a large city church."

"Vesper services were held every Sunday evening, and the church was almost always crowded. There were living in the city at that time two girls, acquaintances of mine, who, for some slight inattention on my part, had seen fit to take no notice of me when we met on the street. This gave me no worry, however, and so they devised another plan to punish me."

"The Sabbath evening, as the congregation was gathering for the service and the great church was about two-thirds full, these two girls entered. I asked them very politely if they would like a seat when one of them spoke up and said that they wished to sit in the second or third seat from the front. So, I started grandly off down the aisle, feeling about twice life size. I went straight to the next to the front pew and, laying my hand on the back of it, as is customary with ushers, I bowed low and looked up the aisle to see the girls, whom I supposed were coming. Imagine my surprise on seeing that they were not in the aisle at all! If ever I wanted the earth to open and swallow me up it was then."

"But no such friendly catastrophe occurred, and then I realized that I must walk back in the face of all those people, of whom nearly all were tittering. I got up the aisle some way, only to find that the two girls had quietly dropped into a back seat as soon as I had started. They laughed in their handkerchiefs all the rest of the evening, and I fell several degrees in my own estimation."—Boston Journal.

The promptness and certainty of its cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy famous. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping coughs, and is the most effectual remedy known for these diseases. Mr. C. B. Main, of Union City, Pa., says: "I have a great sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I warrant every bottle and have never heard of one failing to give entire satisfaction." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., agents for the Hawaiian Islands.
